Weekend Features Terrapins, Dance Colonials Decided Underdogs Against Tatum's Terrors

by Jerry Davis

• MARYLAND'S TERRAPINS, undoubtedly the most powerful gridiron machine in the South with a seven-game unbeaten streak to prove it, will be favored heavily Saturday afternoon when they tackle George Washington's Colonials at Griffith Stadium.

GW will play the role of David in the "Homecoming" battle against the Goliath Terps. Kickoff time for the tussle is set for 2 p.m. Pre-game ceremonies will begin at 1 o'clock.

Coach Jim Tatum's mighty charges, ranked as the country's second top team, will have little regard for the Colonials' 3-3 record.

And although "Bo" Sherman's eleven hasn't knocked off any giants thus far this season, they can't be counted completely out of the picture as giant-killers.

The Homecoming crowd for Saturday's encounter is expected to nearly fill the Griffith Stadium stands, which seat over 30,000.

Both teams will employ the split-T with All-America candidate Bernie Faloney leading the Terp attack and Bob Sturm and Ray Fox directing the GW offensive drive.

Faloney had been lauded by every coach of Maryland's opposition in its seven earlier games.

Three of the top running backs in the Atlantic Coast Conference will handle the ground gaining chores for the visitors. Halfbacks Chester Hanulak and Dick Nolan and Fullback Ralph Felton round out one of the best backfield combinations in College Park history.

Sturm and Fox will alternate in the field general slot for GW. Bill Weaver, Lenny Clemiecki, John Saifer, Arlin Barr, Lou Donofrio and Dickie Phillips should all see action at the half-backs while Norb "Dutch" Danz and Joe Boland will hold down the fullback post.

Dramatic Production Chooses Play Cast

• THE CAST FOR SING OUT, SWEET LAND, the University's second dramatic production of the year, has been selected.

The play, which will be presented in Lisner Auditorium December 3, 4, and 5, will be under the direction of Dr. Vera Mowry, professor of English.

R. Thomas Douglas will be Barnaby, who represents the epitome of American song throughout the play. Jennie O'Neill will play Priscilla, who in addition to appearing in all the scenes under various names, wants Barnaby to settle down with her.

Parson Kiljoy, the villain, who is against all song and dance, will be portrayed by Stuart Smith. Frankie and Johnny, of ballad fame, will be played by Jacqueline Heckman and William H. Bromley Jr.

Fiddler, Happy, and Mrs. Jones, the wife of the renowned Casey Jones, are characterized by Paul Conway, Dave Nelson, and Betty

Attendance At Chapel Increases

• THE UNIVERSITY CHAPEL is "slowly building up," says Dr. Lawrence Daniel Folkemer, head of the Department of Religion, "but we need support and encouragement from the students as well as the faculty."

The interdenominational chapel services are held at 12:10 every Wednesday at Western Presbyterian Church, which is right around the corner on H Street. The programs are short worship services, followed by brief sermons by prominent local clergymen, or often by members of the faculty.

Dr. Louis Clark Keating, head of the Department of Romance languages, was last week's speaker, and Dean Elmer Louis Kayser, of the History Department, spoke earlier in the semester.

Sponsored by the Department of Religion, the chapel program is headed by Dr. Folkemer.

"We feel that this is a real place for the University family to come together and worship," said Dr. Folkemer. "It does something for the spirit of the school, and we hope it will grow."

Tomorrow's guests will be the Reverend Dr. Edward Willingham, pastor of the National Baptist Memorial Church, who will give the sermon, and Mr. Jules Zabawa, minister of music at the Church of the Reformation, who has been reinvited to sing by popular request of University students.

Board Names Farrington as Contact Aide

• UNIVERSITY TRUSTEES announced the appointment of Mr. Max Farrington as assistant to the president of the University in charge of public contacts.

Mr. Farrington, who has been serving as director of activities for men and athletics, will assist University President Cloyd H. Marvin in coordinating the function of the University's public relations office, alumni office, student promotion and fund raising activities.

Newly Created Office

The position is a newly created one designed to assist the office of the President. Mr. Farrington will begin his new duties at once.

He will continue for the present as director of men's activities and athletics.

Mr. Farrington was appointed to the University staff in 1929 as head baseball coach and coach of the freshman football team.

For the past 15 years he has worked closely with President Marvin in developing the present pattern of Colonial athletics.

He is president of the Southern Conference and is now completing his third year in this capacity.

(Mr. Farrington is the only one who has been president of the Southern Conference more than two terms.)

As director of men's activities at the University, Mr. Farrington has been adviser to men's organizations on campus.

During the past year he has been chairman of a special University committee on public contracts.

Civic Activities

He is past president of the Touchdown Club and presently is executive secretary of the Metropolitan Police Boys Club, a member of the executive committee of Kiwanis Club, and treasurer of Colonials, Inc., a University alumni organization.

Ford Grants Available for Foreign Study

• THE FORD FOUNDATION Board on Overseas Training and Research is offering a number of foreign study and research grants concerning the Near, Middle and Far East.

This program is designed to meet the urgent need for large numbers of Americans, who have an understanding of the histories and cultures of these vital regions.

The Board expects to make these awards to persons drawn from wide variety of educational and professional backgrounds. Awards will be made for periods from one to three years. Limited funds may be provided to enable the immediate family of the successful applicant to accompany him. Programs may be carried out in the United States, abroad, or both.

Applicants should be seniors, graduate students, or persons who are doing or have done work relating to one specific region. They should be 36 or under, a United States citizen, or an alien with substantial proof of intent to become a citizen.

Further information and application forms may be obtained from the Ford Foundation Branch on Overseas Training and Research, 575 Madison Avenue, New York 22, New York. Application must be completed and returned on or before January 8, 1954.

Nell, Harry Head Career Conference

• GLENN ARCHER, president of the Student Council, announced the appointment of Nell Weaver and Harry Hughes as co-chairmen of the fourth annual career conference, scheduled this year for March 3. This date was misprinted on the Student Calendar as February 17.

Nell Weaver and Harry Hughes have chosen sub-committee heads as follows: Anne Page, program chairman; John Stockton, publicity chairman; Carol Dunne, facilities; and Sue Scott, administrative assistant. Room 203 in the Student Union Annex will house the committee and the phone will be Na. 8-5200, extension 497.

Applications for work on any of the committees are still being accepted. Forms are in Mrs. McNeil's office in the Annex and may be placed in the mailbox there.

Such outstanding citizens as Eddie Rickenbacker, Louis B. Hershey and Justice Robert H. Jackson have been featured as keynote speakers in the past. Last year Alben Barkley opened the conference.

"To present a complete career picture and employment possibilities" is the way Harry Hughes explains the purpose of the career conference. This year Nell Weaver says they "hope to increase the number of forums by giving individual space and time to groups that were doubled up last year."

Twenty different forums were presented last year by various student organizations in this all University program.

Flanagan Melodies Highlight Dancing; Frats Greet Alums

• DANCE FROM DUSK till dawn to the strains of Ralph Flanagan's famous dance orchestra at the 1953 Homecoming Ball at the National Guard Armory on November 7.

Ralph Flanagan will highlight the ball with melodies that have made him the favorite of music-lovers the nation over. Intermission music will be supplied by an old Washington favorite, Jack Morton.

The dance is formal (with navy blue suits allowed) but no flowers permitted. The evening will be highlighted by the crowning of the queen by the president of the Student Council, Glen Archer. She will reign over the dance for the rest of the evening and lend an air of regal splendor to the rest of the proceedings.

The awards for the winning floats at the pep rally Friday night will be presented, and the Gate and Key inter-fraternity honorary will tap new members.

Homecoming tickets are available at the booth in the Student Union and sell for only $6 per couple, so get them as soon as possible. Tickets may also be purchased at the door.

All Colonials, both old and new, will meet and greet one another during the festivities.

Under the management of the Homecoming committee and its affiliated groups, who have been working for over three months on this project, this year's Homecoming should be the most enjoyable and extensive in recent years.

The Homecoming celebration will get its kick-off at a rally scheduled for the night of November 6 at 8 p.m. in the University parking lot.

Following the pep rally there will be open house at all the fraternity houses, so that the Greeks of old can get together with their successors on campus.

On November 7 at 11 a.m. a

The Cherry Tree staff meets Wednesday at 12:30 p.m. in the Cherry Tree room of the Student Union Annex.

coffee hour for alumni, faculty, and student leaders will be held. This is one of the innovations added by this year's Homecoming committee to stimulate alumni interest in the University.

President Cloyd H. Marvin will be on hand to give a report on the recent improvements that have been made at the University. Here also, the alumni will be able to meet the new alumni chairman, Stanley Tracy, who succeeds Dean Kayser in that position.

At 2 p.m. on the same day the University's football team will face Maryland's at Griffith Stadium. The highly rated Maryland eleven will be up against the best University team in 16 years. There will also be pre-game and half-time entertainment.

Following the game there will be a reception for all alumni at the Mayflower Hotel. This affair is sponsored by Colonials Inc., an organization of active and interested alumni, and all alumni are urged to attend.

Tickets for the dance are on sale at the Student Union. They will also be available at the door.

Early Sales Guarantee Homecoming Success

UNPRECEDENTED EARLY TICKET sales seem to assure the financial as well as the social success of the Homecoming festivities.

"We weren't sure that such a tremendous undertaking by the committee would receive the support that it truly deserves," said Len Weinglass, Homecoming ticket chairman, "but everything certainly points toward success. I am sure that the University officials and the student body should be proud that their spirit alone promises a successful dance."

Three locations have been selected for the sale of tickets. They are the ticket office in Linsen Auditorium, the Student Union, and the Student Book Store. The price of tickets is $6.00, only one dollar more than last year's price. The rise in price is due to the acquisition of the nation's top dance band, Ralph Flanagan.

"We felt that it would be better to keep the price of tickets about the same, and expect a larger crowd than last year," stated Carolyn Billingsley, co-chairman of the Homecoming committee.

Hillel Invites Public to Six Lecture Series

THE 1953-54 SYMPOSIUM series entitled "Religion As A Way of Life," will begin tomorrow night, November 4, at 8:15 p.m. at the Hillel House, 2129 F Street, N.W.

Rabbi David Panitz of Congregation Adas Israel will give the opening talk. His topic will be "Religious Guideposts." Chairman of the series is Jim Rudin of the Hillel religious committee.

Rabbi Aaron Seidman, director of the University Hillel, announced, "We are pleased that Rabbi Panitz will give the opening talk in our series. I would also like to thank Phi Alpha fraternity for the fine cooperation they have given us by sponsoring tomorrow night's program."

In addition to Rabbi Panitz's talk there will be six other lectures during the school year. They will be held on various Wednesday nights. They include:

December 9—"Religion of Islam," Dr. Habala, Director, Islamic Center.

January 6—"The Hebraic Heritage in the Modern World," Rabbi Kellner, Administrative Director, Hebrew Academy of Washington.

February 10—"Ideals of the Baha'i Faith," C. Newell Atkinson, Chairman, Baha'i Center.

February 24—"Toward a Creative American Jewry," Rabbi Balow Brickner, Temple Sinai.

March 10—"Religion of Thailand," Phra Pradot, Cultural Counselor, Royal Thai Embassy.

We hope by means of this program to teach people about other religions, as well as our own. It is for this reason that we have included the Islamic, Baha'i, and Thai speakers. This is the second annual series conducted at the B'nai B'rith Foundation. Rabbis Panitz, Brickner, and Schiff have consented to return this year. The public is invited to these lectures," Jim Rudin stated.

Leon Busilloff, retired director of the Band, has been assisting in its reorganization. Officers have been elected with Doris Severe as president, Dick Roberts as secretary and Jim Bolling as librarian.

Any interested students may contact Doris Severe at LO 5-0195.

Koenig Criticizes U.S.'s Weak Foreign Policies

DEAN MYRON L. KOENIG put forth his view that the United States has no real foreign policy and advocated the setting up of a foreign service academy last Thursday night to the International Relations Club and Delta Phi Epsilon, in a joint meeting of the two groups.

Using Great Britain as an example of a nation with a foreign policy, Dean Koenig contrasted our various and sundry "courses of action," with such a "policy" as the favorable balance of power which one can trace in the history of Britain from the late 15th Century to the present time. "In the history of the United States one can find no such policy," said Dean Koenig.

Calls Doctrine Course of Action

As an example, the so-called policy, the Monroe Doctrine, was only a course of action because "the legislature never established it, other nations never accepted it, and it never became a part of International Law," and also because "it has been used or ignored as Presidents have wanted."

The reason the United States has no stable foreign policy, claimed Dean Koenig, is partly that every time a new party comes into office a "new policy" is demanded of the President and his Secretary of State, and partly because of the Foreign Service setup. Service Needs More Specialization

"More specialization is needed in our Foreign Service," demanded Dean Koenig in an argument for the establishment of a foreign service academy. "Is there any other profession that isn't specialized? Look at law or medicine or engineering." "We should be willing to spend more to train people" to establish our "first line of defense," our "only and lasting protection of peace," declared Dean Koenig.

Interest Starts Grad Seminar

IN RESPONSE to increasing interest in contemporary literature, particularly in major writers on both sides of the Atlantic, the department of English will offer during the coming spring term a graduate seminar on T. S. Eliot.

The course will be taught by Professor Calvin D. Linton, who has for some years offered an upper division course in twentieth-century British literature. It will be open to qualified graduate and undergraduate students. Prior to this time, no graduate-level work has been offered in contemporary British literature, though study in the modern period has been available in the field of American literature.

Though he is American-born, Mr. Eliot has lived most of his adult life in England, and has become more closely associated in the public mind with British than with American writers. His work in poetry, criticism, and drama, including the recently popular The Cocktail Party, has created for him perhaps the most eminent name in modern English letters.

Engineering Mag Needs New Name

by Bob van Sickler

• AT THE PRESENT time there is much controversy in the Engineering School over the name of its student publication, the Mechanic Magazine.

One camp maintains the name should be kept as it is, since it stands for mechanical, electrical and civil, the three fields of engineering taught at the University. The opposing side claims the name is too hard to spell or pronounce and to the uninformed, it means nothing. (The correct pronunciation is mik-el'-uh-siv.)

Mecheleevy Contest

The Engineer's Council, the student governing body of the school, has set up a contest to determine whether the name should be changed or not. Suggestions for the new name will be judged by the Council and the author of the best suggestions will receive a handbook as a prize. Further details may be found in Mecheleevy itself.

Society Meetings

On Wednesday, November 1, the four engineering societies will hold their respective meetings. All interested students are invited.

Each meeting will consist of a talk or movie on some subject of interest to each degree candidate. The talks will be followed by a brief business session and refreshments.

Foxy Trotting Featured In Homecoming Hints

by Joan Drew

• WITH THE BIG weekend on everybody's mind, let's cast a quick eyeball around the country to see how our collegiate compatriots are preparing for their great moment.

"Decorations, prosperous alumni and women," breathes Davidson College (N.C.) happily. "How you gonna fight it?" We visualize gorgeous coed queens feeding peeled grapes to football players as the latter recline on couches looking degenerate. (Really only saving their strength for game time next day.)

Nothing lackadaisical about Davidson, though. They are prepared for every emergency that might arise during the weekend. For those who might be faced with the prospect of dancing at the Homecoming Ball, the "Davidsonian" recommends the Fort Benning 4-Step—done to the tune of "The Stars and Stripes Forever." (Also recommended by the Department of the Army, they reassure.)

• . . . COMMAND: In two parts: Preparatory command, Detail; command of execution, HUP, TRUP, FRUP, HRLUP.

This sounds like the coming thing.

For the "less-than-fortunate blind-dater," the "Davidsonian" suggests the Cincinnati One-Step. You meet your date at the train. "Start with your left foot; take one step onto the train she got off, walk to her, and in a day and a half you'll be in Cincinnati."

"Consists of a shift to the right, a twirl with arms extended, then 182 short steps. The object is to get as far out of sight as possible before he pries his hands out of the door."

Homecoming's in the air. It pervades, permeates and prevails. It's all you read about these days. Let's face it: we commercialize our emotions.

The "Varsity News" of the University of Detroit nostalgically compares Homecoming to a "Sunday dinner for a large family." Missouri University, on the other hand, gets right down to business at their annual "ROMP AND CHOMP." No sentimentalists they!

Out-Cheer Maryland

AS THE HOMECOMING game with Maryland approaches, so does the true test of spirit at the University.

It is hoped that our students walk into Griffith Stadium on Saturday feeling they will see a well-fought game, not a one-sided slaughter by the undefeated.

There should be a battle in the stands as well as on the field—to see who can give its team the most support. Maryland is powerful, not only on the field, but also in the stands, with its well-organized cheering.

Why can't we here match or top them in this? Man for man on the field, Maryland may prove superior but voice for voice on the sidelines, the University can prove the master.

Let's go to Griffith Stadium feeling we are tops, and the eleven men on the field will do their best for us.

With the student body backing them wholeheartedly, the Colonials might pull a surprise on the Terps.

Mrs. Carnegie Teaches Women to 'Springboard' Their Mates to Success

by Steve Kraus

RING OUT THE BELLS, and an extra ration of goat milk for all hands!!! Throw all scoffers to the doves, let there be rejoicing in the pool parlors of the nation!!!

Our culture, sneezed at by all those dirty foreigners since the crew of the Mayflower came back and started the ball rolling by criticizing the primitive plumbing over here; yes, our culture is safe at last, beyond the reach of cavil and insidious remarks.

Down With Dickens

We have Mrs. Dale Carnegie! Yes, the wife of the man who first revealed unto an innocent and backward world that it was more blessed to influence your neighbor than to love him, has now herself entered the literary arena with a book which will surely rank in historic significance with such volumes as the Satyricon of Petronius and Walt Kelly's Uncle Pogo's So Tales.

We first learned about this belles lettres event of the century when, looking through the New York Times Sunday book section a few weeks back, a doughty, pithy ad smote our eye. "ARE YOU MAKING THESE TEN MISTAKES THAT CAN HURT YOUR HUSBAND'S CAREER?" reads the headline. Flanking it, on one side, is the picture of Mrs. Dale Carnegie, looking obviously as if she couldn't hurt her husband's career even if you twisted her.

Women, Be Springboards!

On the other side is the list itself, a veritable new decalogue of gaucheries, which, the copy of the ad tells us, millions of American wives want to know more about. Well, now your worries are over, dears. Just buy "How to Help Your Husband Get Ahead," shrieks the ad, and too, you miserable albatross around your hard-working wage slave's neck, can be "your husband's springboard of success."

The truth is, if any girl to whom we proposed said to us, "Yours is a wise choice, darling; I will not

I WOULD LIKE to inform you in regards to an article about the IFC in last week's copy, that there is no fraternity on campus by the name of Theta Chi; however, a fraternity by the name of Theta Delta Chi does exist and would appreciate it considerably if its name could be shown correctly . . . ### Lady Blasts Red China

Mr. Kraus:

DO YOU REALLY believe that Red China, a country directly dictated by the Kremlin, should be admitted as our diplomatic neighbor in the United Nations? Do you not see that this move would be the same as an outright approval of the Communistic policy which we Americans hate?

This action would be one of shameful hypocrisy. Korea and all the sorrows and hardships that came with it would have been for nothing. The Red Chinese were the ones who gave the aid to the North Koreans; they were the ones who helped to torture and kill American boys.

Perhaps, Mr. Kraus, you have not read any of the reports issued by the American prisoners of war. Perhaps, you can not understand what a terrible loss the death of a loved one is.

You seem to imply in one section of your report that Soviet Russia is against us now because the United States did not acknowledge her before 1933. The Bolsheviks came into power in the Revolution of 1917, after years of underground planning. Since then their policies in Russia have gone on uninterrupted and every person who has dared to defy the leaders has been wiped out. Do you think that the mere diplomatic acceptance of this Russia by the United States could have put a halt to all the purging since 1917 and to the Bolshevik dream of world domination? These ruthless men care nothing for approval; they care only for power, power gained by force if necessary, as evidenced by the bloody pages of Bolshevik history.

Our acceptance of Red China could not stop this dream but only enlarge it. We must show our spirit and uphold our honor. We must not accept what we do not believe in. We must show other countries we meant what we tried to do in Korea—that we really wanted to stop the "tide of Communism."

Can we say to the supporter of our North Korean enemy, "Welcome—no hard feelings? Our boys didn't mind dying or being tortured. American families don't mind that empty place at the table. We don't want you to think we're narrow minded. WELCOME to the United Nations to help in the fight against Communism."

Irene M. Schuler
(Ed. note—Mr. Kraus is fully aware of the real nature of Red China. What he is suggesting is that since the United States has agreed to the admission of other Communist countries to the United Nations—such as Russia and the satellite countries—the United States might as well agree to the admission of Red China.)

Information Box . . .

A HATCHET BOX will be put in the Activities Office in the Student Union Annex where clubs and organizations may put announcements about meetings, elections or plans.

All announcements must be brief and clear, and must include a club officer's name and phone number, so information can be verified or amplified.

Audience Finds Play Truly 'Young and Gay'

by Lowell Swortzell

NOT ONLY WERE the hearts of Cornelia Otis Skinner and Emily Kimbrough young and gay in the opening production of the dramatic season, but so were those of the audience.

They filled Lisner with maturity and sophistication during a madcap trip to Europe. Cornelia and Emily possessed that abandoned knack for doing the unexpected, the improbable, and often indeed, the impossible.

But these things couldn't happen to two more deserving girls, for they are as unexpected, improbable, and impossible a pair as you are likely to meet in a book, a movie, or a play.

Audience Rolls in Aisles

Because it is cleaner than a whistle, especially some whistles, and because it has a variety of easily actable roles together with abundant farcical elements, the play, as dramatized by Jean Kerr, has been tremendously successful in high school productions. And what is good enough for high schools is good enough for universities. Although the play was never produced professionally, its publisher calls it a "sure fire" success.

Having been subjected myself to three previous productions, the play's sure fire is just about burned out as far as I'm concerned. But even so, I must admit to laughing once again at several moments in last week's production.

Since this was the sole purpose in presenting "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay" in the first place, everyone, including myself, agrees that it was a resounding success.

If It Fits, Wear It

However, the physical production in no way contributed to this success. The settings did their best to prove that the ship's cabin was a place where anyone could become sick—sea or otherwise. And I feel sorry for those bed bugs who were forced to inhabit that splotchy green bedroom. The costumes were no better.

Apparently, their basis of selection was, "If it fits, wear it," because over fifty years of dress of one kind or another were represented in costumes that were supposed to be of the 1923 era.

The lighting was erratic, and the properties seemed a hodge-podge of wrong period, wrong place pieces.

Although the play poses no dramatic problems, it was obvious that by hard work and enthusiastic sincerity the cast had the script well in hand and mouth. If they lacked an over-all style and evenness, no one noticed but me.

Williams Develops Technique

Ann Williams as Cornelia possessed an embryonic comic technique, which will undoubtedly develop with additional experience. She represents an instance where the present Dramatic Activities organization is fulfilling one of its basic purposes, that of enabling local actors and students to gain experience by performing before paying audiences.

Before the professional theatre may discover an actor, he must first discover himself—that is, find his range, his style, and his technique. Most amateurs cannot do this unless given the leadership of more experienced people, and because of the lack of such leaders, the amateur usually remains unabashedly amateur. Several in William Calahan's cast may not remain such.

When a drama program has among its aims such a noble one as the above it deserves unanimous support. Those who saw Mrs. Kerr's play were glad they did. In December they will be given the opportunity to see if her husband, Walter, can be as entertaining when his "Sing Out, Sweet Land" is produced as the second play of the season; I will tell you right now, he can.

Ghouls Reign during Cosmopolitans' Party

by Bob Riggs

• THE GHOULS AND THE ghosts failed to dampen the ardor of G.W.'s cosmopolitan set as the International Student Society held its first party of the season last Friday night at Woodhull House.

Halloween revelers from all quarters of the globe played parlor games and danced to continental and Latin-American rhythms till the wee hours.

All eyes were upon the refreshment table where exotic dainties like cider and doughnuts and a mammoth orange and black centerpiece greeted the guests.

The Italian colony took the honors in the costume department, being represented five times over; but it was discovered that two of them were imposters, who were shy about coming in native American dress.

A great deal of fun was provoked by a re-take on the old "Who am I?"

Representing numerous celebrities from fact and fiction, from Plato to Madame Pandit, the party-goers had to discover their secret identities through the pointed remarks of others such as: "How your toga becomes you tonight, old bean, but I should beware of such drapery as the Ides of March if I were you; the Ides of March, I say."

First to discover her other self was co-ed Janice Lear. We'd never before noticed her striking resemblance to Margaret Truman. She claimed it wasn't true and wouldn't honor the company with a song despite repeated entreaties. "I'm out of voice tonight."

Capitol Zoo

by Rod Alexander

• AFTER TALKING WITH many people from all over the United States on the subject, one realizes how few Americans really understand the implications and dangers in the growing power of Senator Joe McCarthy of Wisconsin.

A typical comment might be something like this: "Joe McCarthy? Oh, yeah! He's that guy who's kickin' the Reds out of the government, isn't he? Seems like a pretty good man to me." The individual, who follows the news a little more closely, but still very superficially, is apt to remark that he approves of the Senator's results but dislikes his methods. And the black-shirted, two-fisted politician from Wisconsin rolls merrily along, as secure in the indifference of the American voter as Stalin ever was behind the carbines and blackjack of his secret police.

Dire Predictions

By 1960, McCarthy will be leader and candidate for President of a coalition party, supported by such noble American patriots as Colonel Robert McCormick of the Chicago Tribune; Gerald L. K. Smith, outstanding national "bigot," and several "Dixiecrats."

The name of this illustrious organization will probably be the "Nationalist American Party," "American Patriots' party" or "Christian American Party," to add a little apple polish to the garbage-covered surface.

Every person speaking against the Senator and his tribe will be pointed out as a "Red" and will either shut up voluntarily or be forever ostracized by his neighbors, friends and employers. The Communist Party will exploit this situation to the hilt, adding hot coals to every flame from Dragon McCarthy's mouth. A greater majority than ever will stay away from the polls, buried to their knees in the same type of lethargy that allowed Hitler and Peron to get strangleholds on their country's administration.

Don't Laugh

Don't laugh—the lessons of history are only too clear before our eyes. McCarthy already controls the State Department through his obedient lieutenant, security officer Scott McLeod, who at any time can remove every opponent as a security risk and manipulate our foreign policy to the Senator's orders. It would be only a matter of time before other top agencies fall under the heavy thumb of the "Unshaven One" and then we can kiss 177 years of our-type democracy good-bye.

The smart G.W. co-ed with dollars in her mind and pennies in her budget will come to the "Little Shop Around the Corner." So conveniently located and open every evening until 9:00. Everything needed or wanted for classroom to ballroom as seen in leading fashion magazines. Charge accounts or layaways available.

Foggy Bottom

by Hester Heale

• NEWS, NEWS, red hot smokin' news! This campus has really been doing well by this racy column this week.

First there was that game with W and L on Saturday. Deltas were there: Tom Potter, with KKG Bobbie Worley; Cliff Royston, with KKG Carol Pitton; Damon Cordon with Susie Thompson, plus pledges Jay Randolph, Harold Rowe, Fred Smithwick, and sundry others: cokes and rubbing alcohol. Later on there was a party with Phi, the local Delt chapter, mad, mad, like most parties.

Our Boys were also yelled at on Saturday by Dottie Anderson, Barbara Haas, Linda Abbott, Nancy Fleming, Jeannie Thigpen and Mary Pierdon.

The TEPhi's had a Monte Carlo party recently (et tu Brute?) so gay that the brothers went broke three times, and had to write I.O.U.'s for $500. Jo Ann Levinson and Alan Kay parlayed their original $500 into $27,150, Marlene Band and Howie Soloff running a close second with $25,000. The winning couple received an Irish Wolfhound. TEP proxy Dave Goldberg supplied all the gambling equipment, which he stole from the S. S. United States.

At the Phi Sig house last Saturday, KD Kathy Denver, DZ Ann Hunt, and Mary Pope got caught in a fast game of Indian Signals, which is rotten luck when you don't like asbyinthe anyway.

Then came Halloween. Everybody gave away lots of candy, and went to lots of parties. Among them was the SAE's: A weird assortment of brothers—Mike Vlahos as a babe in arms—Cam Lowe and Peggy Weedon as St. George and the Dragonette—Jim Swisher, a Continental with a spare tire strapped on his back—recent pinups Marty Barley and Betsey Silver, as a river boatman and a leopard; Russ Sergeant as a flapper, the most seductive thing seen in Sig Alpha in a long time, with PI Phi Ann Auman . . . Rumors are flying about that pair . . . And Jay Brown, Phil Dobbins and Russ Snow, viewing the entire proceedings with a jaundiced eye . . .

At the Kappa Sigs: Dr. Sam "Frankenstein" Favarella created a monster, Harry Houseman; Joan "Little Red Riding Hood" Gallagher had lots of goodies for Grandma; Eileen Weaver looked like a fine addition to anyone's harem; Ray Rothgeb gave a preview of his Charleston number in the forthcoming musical, and Norvel Reed's combo made noise for all citizens, from Caesar to French Apache . . .

Then there's something scribbled on a piece of Camembert cheese deposited in the wire basket (I'm either being poisoned or bribed) that looks like "Conspiracy by purser to catch rat in Sigma Nu house"—have you ever tried to write on Camembert? It means, I finally figured out, that Saturday night at the Sigma Nu house, somebody with a black face and padded clothes padded in from the streets when he/she smelled the good Wurtzburger.

Vegetables: At the Phi Sig house, Pat Culley as a vegetable. Also, Marilyn Tate, Girl DG, as a vegetable garden, and Beale Ong, SAE, as her Mother. Identical costumes at different parties. Great minds . . . Nobody came home with any vegetables, though. Everybody got hungry. Janet Vernon, DG pledge, came as a woman of the future, with green hair, and Xmas tree ornaments. Don't we wish.

We hear the Chi O's are un-touchables. They played tackle football with the Sigma Chi's the other day, and other outdoor parlor games. Delicious food was had by all with indigestion. Corrine Striker and Jerry Jones are pinned, didja know? He's a Sigma Nu.

Pledge Formal: The KD's had theirs out at Normandy Farm, Friday the 23rd. After the pledges were presented, a midnite supper was served. The dance was preceded by a party at Louise Meichle's.

From Theta, we hear that Eileen McNally married George Carter, DU from Lafayette College this August. Great fun and games at the recent Theta-Teke coffee hour, and exchange at the SN house. Nancy Hopkins found New York more attractive than ever this weekend . . . Theta has adopted that wandering Phi Gamma Ken Martin.

Scandal: Strong Hall denizens witnessed quite a little scene from the Southside windows of the bldg. the other nite; someone was beating someone else over the head with a knotty cudgel, and some Sigma Chi's rushed to the rescue upon hearing shrieks—but felt they should depart when the cops took over. So nothing exciting ever happens in Foggy Bottom.

• DO YOU KNOW that jet planes will be able to fly more easily at supersonic speeds with "flying stovepipe" engines than with present-day turbojet power plants?

This topic, as well as others about the position of the ram-jet engine as a practical jet plane, will be explained at tomorrow's meeting of the University student branch of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers in Govt.-1, at 8:15 p.m. The public is invited.

Dr. Walter G. Berl, supervisor of the ram-jet research work at the Johns Hopkins Applied Physics Laboratory, will speak. Refreshments will be served.

Dr. Berl was born in Vienna, Austria, and came here in 1933. He received his B.S. at the Carnegie Institute of Technology and his M.S. and Ph.D. at Harvard. He came to the Applied Physics Laboratory in 1946 as a fuel and combustion research chemist.

• THE PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICES National Heart Institute has given the University $25,000 to use in teaching medical students the latest ways to diagnose and treat heart diseases.

The grant will be directed by Dr. John M. Evans, associate clinical professor of medicine, and Dr. Albert D. Kistin, associate in medicine.

The Public Health Service first granted funds for this teaching program in 1952.

• PROF. C. H. WALTHER, professor of mechanical engineering at the University, is on a leave of absence until February to do library research for a book he will write.

The book, "Advanced Strength of Materials," will be an attempt to bridge the gap between the elementary strength of materials courses and the advanced courses dealing with special topics, such as the theory of elasticity and the strength of light-weight materials.

Coordinating Board Starts Second Year

• THE WOMEN'S Coordinating Board is starting its second active year at the University. Headed by Shirley Floyd, the Coordinating Board is already considering projects which will be of service to the school.

Under the auspices of Miss Virginia Kirkbride, director of women's activities, plans were made in the spring of 1952 for a board designed to coordinate all the women's activities on campus. Last year the neophyte group proved itself an important and necessary group by successfully completing several worthwhile projects.

The board has directed and handled much of the publicity for May Day activities, helping to arouse much of the enthusiasm evident at this important campus event.

The Clothes for Korea drive, under the able management of Ellen McEwen, last year's president, brought forth much spirit and clothes from University organizations. Working in conjunction with the Student Council, the board added to the success of the monthly dances last year by providing hostesses from the women's groups.

The board again wishes to urge full cooperation from the many women's organizations on campus, in hopes that they may have enthusiasm in forthcoming projects.

Tassels Sip Coffee with Professors

• THE FIRST COFFEE hour, which honors the English Department Faculty, will be held on the second floor of the Student Union, November 4, at 4 p.m. This all-University program is sponsored by the sophomore women's honorary Tassels.

Interested students will have a chance to meet personally and in a social atmosphere, those men and women who have been trying to teach students to write effectively.

For the first time the University has granted permission to use the Student Union for a group function. This permission was granted because the University felt this to be an all-University function.

The coffee hour program will be continued throughout the entire semester honoring different departments, in order to promote better student-faculty relations.

All the work of decorating, serving and cleaning-up for these programs has been done by Tassels for the student body.

Stone Gives Opening Talk

• LT. GENERAL Charles B. Stone, III, deputy chief of staff, and comptroller of the U. S. Air Force, gave the opening address for the thirteenth Air Force Managerial Training Program at the University in Lisner Auditorium last Tuesday.

General Clark, president of the Harvard Business Club of the District of Columbia, spoke to 100 Air Force command officers and key civilian personnel attending the three week course given by the University in cooperation with the Air Force.

General Clark is a graduate of the U. S. Military Academy and was commanding general of the Flying Tigers from August 1945 until the group was deactivated. He holds the Distinguished Service Medal, Legion of Merit, Distinguished Flying Cross and the Bronze Star with Oak Leaf Cluster.

Dean Koenig, 8 Others Elected Delta Phi Officers

• DEAN MYRON L. KOENIG of the Junior College was elected National Vice-President of the Eta chapter of Delta Phi Epsilon, the national foreign service fraternity, last Tuesday.

Koenig, also a member of Phi Eta Sigma, Pi Gamma Mu, ODK, Masons, the American Historical Association, and the American Association of University Professors, was initiated into the Eta Chapter, March, 1951.

He served as faculty adviser for the local chapter during the 1951-52 and 1952-53 years.

The fraternity also elected a complete slate of officers and passed 18 amendments to its by-laws during the October 27 meeting.

Jesse O. Murphy, a graduate in foreign affairs last June, was re-elected president. Murphy, now a graduate student in business administration, is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, secretary of Alpha Kappa Psi, and was president of the School of Government student council last year.

Stanley R. Miller, Jr., senior, was elected vice-president-for-program. Miller, a political science major, is currently president of the International Relations Club.

Brady G. Barr, a junior in foreign affairs, was elected to the post of vice president-for-administration.

Matthew Margoles, a foreign affairs senior and a member of Phi Sigma Kappa, was elected vice-president-for-membership.

Dayton Coe, also a foreign affairs senior, was elected vice-president-for-finance.

Wilson Schmidt, Professor of International Economics, has been chosen as adviser to the Eta Chapter.

Bill Lang, a foreign affairs senior, was chosen house manager and historian.

Bob Alden, who is majoring in the history and political science fields, was selected as publicity director.

Mural Golf . . .

• INTRAMURAL golf competition will be held for all University students at Georgetown Prep., November 14, at 9:00 a.m.

Students should turn in their names for competition to the Intramural Office, Student Union Annex, sometime this week, so that pairings may be announced in next week's HATCHET.

Vet Cagers Begin Drills For Rugged '54 Season

by Bob Alden

• GEORGE WASHINGTON University's basketball team, billed as favorite in the revamped Southern Conference, opened practice yesterday at "Tin Tabernacle" with all but one member of last year's varsity returning. The Colonials are blessed with height, speed, a powerful offense, and a good balance of youth and experience.

Heading the list of returnees is Joe Holup, the six foot, five inch center from Swoyerville, Pa., who established or equalled 14 individual GW scoring records as a freshman last winter when he scored 424 points.

The number two point-producer of the Colonials a year ago, Walter (Corky) Devlin, who appeared on the verge of being drafted by Uncle Sam last week, will be back in the lineup thanks to a deferment granted him by his Draft Board over the week end. The • Devlin, a transfer student from Potomac State, will be entering his junior year of eligibility.

Only seniors reporting to Coach Bill Reinhart yesterday were John Holup, older brother of Joe; Elliot Karver of the Bronx, N. Y.; and Phil DeTurk of Bethesda.

The elder Holup, who also stands 6-5, will attempt to become the second GW player to surpass the 1,000 point mark this season. Bill Cantwell was the first century shooter for GW, hitting the mark during his fourth year as a regular in 1947-1948. John Holup and Devlin are slated for the starting forward berths.

Karver, the top floorman and one of the ten most accurate free throw shooters in the nation last year, will probably handle one of the guard positions. DeTurk, who is the tallest Colonial at 6-7, will be used as a replacement for Joe Holup.

The other regulars returning from the 1952-53 G-Streeters, who disappointed local fans by finishing ninth in the old Southern Conference after being rated as the number two team at the outset of the season, are guards Basil (Buzz) Ciriello and Ed Catino.

GW is being rated by most observers as the number one team in the Southern Conference, just ahead of Furman, which is paced by Frank Selvy, the all-time prolific scorer among major college teams. Richmond and West Virginia complete the upper echelon of the streamlined loop.

Football Contest

• THE HATCHET and the CHERRY TREE are sponsoring the following football contest under the management of the Hatchet sports staff.

Any student of George Washington University is eligible to enter and may submit as many entries as he wishes. Entries may be submitted on the official Hatchet entry blank or on facsimiles.

Entries may be placed in contest boxes located in (1) the Student Union lobby, (2) the Hatchet newsstand in Monroe Hall, and (3) the Hatchet newsstand in the Hall of Government.

Each entrant should circle his choices of winners in the ten games selected from Southern and Atlantic Coast Conference tilts, area and representative national contests. If the entrant feels the game will end in a tie he should check the appropriate blank.

Each entrant should pick the score of the George Washington game, noting it in the appropriate blanks at the top of the contest sheet.

The winner or winners will be judged on the most correct games and the closeness of the spread of points to the actual spread in the GW game. (In case of ties, duplicated prizes will be awarded.)

All entries for this week must be in the contest boxes by Friday evening at 8.

The winner or winners will receive free the 1954 edition of the CHERRY TREE, valued at $6.00.

Defeat Tastes Just As Bad to Ball Players

by George Neumann

• EVER WONDER what ballplayers do, or how they act after their team has lost a ball game it should have won? I was wondering about it at Williamsburg, Virginia, last week at about 4:38 p.m. William & Mary had beaten George Washington in a heart-breaker, 12-7.

As the final gun sounded, I watched the thin blue line trudge dejectedly off of the field. They had done their best, but a win was not in the cards for the Colonials. Victory, which had seemed so close in the waning moments of the game, had once again eluded them.

Piercing the gloom of the dressing room was like entering an ancient tomb. Only the antiseptic smell of rubbing alcohol reminded me that it was a dressing room, and not a mausoleum. But the stillness of the room was deafening. The wax-like figures of the ballplayers seemed like individual monuments of defeat. Not a word was spoken. On the far side of the room, a star back was staring blankly at the wall, seemingly counting the bricks, but I knew that his thoughts were lost in the roar of the crowd, his mind still on the playing field. A lineman sat stolidly, and kept kicking rhythmically at an empty water bucket. Another was slowly unlacing his cleats, trying to fight back the tears, but I could see that his cheeks were wet. One of the managers patted one of the boys on the back, but the fellow never felt it; he kept pounding his fists against each other. At the entrance to the room.

After the meal, the long bus ride home. Gloom also boarded the bus back that night to Washington.

But a strange thing happened in the semi-darkness of the bus. Somewhere between Williamsburg and Washington, a couple of laughs were heard and then more. Soon the whole bus had miraculously come to life. Belated congratulations to comrades who had played well were suddenly in order. Jokes exploded all over the transport. The boys were laughing again. There was always next week . . .

Girls' Rifle Team Owns Superior Coach, Record Two Tie for Top Honors In Contest

by Damon Cordon

We just want to get the facts m'am. DID YOU FIRE THAT GUN?

Yes, but how did you know that?

That's our duty m'am. Just played a hunch. Sometimes you win and sometimes you lose. We happened to win.

The above talk is not solely characteristic of Dragnet; for similar utterings can be heard this Thursday at 12:25 when the Rifle Club meets to shoot it out for new members in Room A of Woodhull House.

These are the facts, m'am:

1. The club was founded in 1925.
2. The team has ranked among the top five collegiate clubs in the U. S. for the past twenty-seven years.
3. The team has won the Inter-collegiate Championship several times.

4. Three former members have been Individual Intercollegiate Champs.

Credit for the rifle team's fine showing over the years should go to Mrs. Helen Harris, who has served as coach since 1931.

Aside from her mentor duties, Helen Harris has found time to participate in matches around the country. Her marksmanship gained for her one of the top five berths in the National Women's Open Individual Championships for eleven years.

• THE FIRST HATCHET—CHERRY TREE football contest produced perfect score cards of eight winners. Thomas J. Creswell and Tom Bosmans tied for top honors in the contest by coming within two points of the 18-point spread of the GW—Washington and Lee game.

Both Creswell and Bosmans will be awarded 1954 Cherry Trees.

Two entrants, who previously tied for picking the most winners in the other contests, but failed to win because of not guessing the correct or nearest to the correct point-spread, were among the top pickers. Gloria M. Wood, a junior college student, and Bob Frederick, a star pitcher on the baseball team, each turned in perfect blanks.

Matthew Foster, the engineering student who won the first contest a week after he submitted his entry in the wrong box, also turned in an entry bearing all winners.

Others to submit perfect entries were: Bill Neal, a football player; Arnold Prothe, of the junior college; John Heckert, Law School; Larry Wiseman, junior college, and Jack Heil, Columbian College.

There were a record number of 575 entries submitted.

'54 Basketball Picture Delights Farrington

by Ed Jaffee

• THIS WEEK'S press conference with Director of Men's Activities Max Farrington revealed a none-too-hopeful outlook on Farrington's part regarding the GW-Maryland game.

The head of GW's athletic department hastened to add that the spirit of the Colonials is really high for this game, but the inferred meaning is that all the spirit in the world is not going to be enough to stop the Nation's number two football team.

Turning to basketball (and the season is almost on us at that) Mr. Farrington noted that practice in the Southern Conference could not begin until November 1. Hence the seeming delay in starting practice at the University. When asked of the caliber of this year's team, Mr. Farrington got really happy for the first time all afternoon. "I think we will have a tremendous ball club this season, since most of the boys are back from last year and the 1952 freshman squad should provide us with some more fine players," said Farrington with a gleam in his eye. He went on to say, "We start the season by playing one of the finer teams in the country, West Virginia. And then comes a strong Richmond squad. GW fans will see some really good basketball this year."

Buff Spirit High For Maryland Clash

Rudin's Ramblings

By Jim Rudin

ONE OF THE highlights of the 1953 grid season will take place this Saturday afternoon at Griffith Stadium when the Buff meet the Maryland Terps. It will be the second time this season the Colonials have met a team ranked among the Nation's top ten. The other squad was, of course, West Virginia.

The Homecoming clash will feature an unbeaten power going against a scrappy, well coached, and highly capable University team. We are quite sure that the game will not be a rout, as some sellers of gloom around the campus would have you believe. Not only will this be the BIG game of the year for the 'G' RUDIN Streeters, but at long last their ground game is clicking. Add to this the fact that the Terps will be, as the sporting parlance goes, "looking ahead" to the Alabama and Mississippi tilts. Add to this formula the fact that it's our Homecoming plus the very important factor of a big win last Saturday and you have what we think will be a very good ball game. We think a lot of sports-casters all over the country will be surprised at the outcome of the little shindig to be held at the Redskins' park this coming week end.

We wonder why Moe Siegel of WTOP never gives the Buff an even break on his sports program. He seems to think that there is only one football team around these parts, one that plays in College Park. What he has against the University we can't figure out. We think his smugness over Maryland is a little uncalled for, and we shall be watching him weep when he talks AFTER this Saturday's game (Could it be that Mr. Siegel is angling for the Terp broadcasting job?).

By now the reader must be aware that this reporter senses a big upset brewing. That we do, and all we can say is, be at Griffith Stadium Saturday for the Victory of the Year.

HATS OFF TO—George Neumann for the good job he's doing as Sports Publicist. George took over the position early this Fall and has done remarkably well. Wesleyan University for pulling off one of the biggest ties in small college play. They tied Amherst, "The Maryland of Small Schools." This was the fourth straight tie between these teams. Each year Amherst was favored by 20 to 30 points. (Oh yes, I went to Wesleyan).

Want To Win a CHERRY TREE?

HOW would you like to win a 1954 edition of the George Washington University CHERRY TREE? All you have to do is sit down for a few minutes and test your football know-how by filling out one of THE HATCHET—CHERRY TREE official entry blanks.

In fact, if you are really interested in the contest, you can enter as many entries as you wish, and enter them on facsimiles as well as the official entry blanks. (There were so many entries in the first two contests that the contest staff has made this change in the rules.)

But don't let this contest keep you from getting in your order for the CHERRY TREE early. If you have ordered or do order THE CHERRY TREE and then find yourself a winner in the football contest, you will receive a $6.00 refund and a kiss from Carlene Parker, editor of THE CHERRY TREE.

LEN CIEMNIECKI... See story below

Down Alden's Beat

Len Ciemniecki Battles to Live Up to Advance Raves

by Bob Alden

Sports Editor

"THE GREATEST RUNNER in GW's lineup for many a season"—this was the virtually unanimous assertion made about Freshman Lenny Ciemniecki last fall as he thrilled Colonial rooters with his brilliant maneuvers on the ground.

After running wild against North Carolina State and Washington and Lee, Ciemniecki was hailed as one of GW's brightest stars. But fate stepped in, and Ciemniecki suffered a series of pulled leg muscles that seriously hampered his effectiveness during the remainder of the season.

Ciemniecki, nevertheless, was crowned the outstanding newcomer on the GW football team at the conclusion of the season, and presented a formidable statistical record to back up the claims of his supporters.

Len finished a strong third among the Colonials' big three rushing stars in total yardage with 464 yards in 70 rushes. Dutch Danz led with 517, followed by Bino Barreiro with 476.

His 6.6 yards per rush was the highest rushing average on the team. He ended third among GW pass receivers with five catches for 139 yards and one touchdown. And he led the Colonials in total scoring with 42 points.

CIEMNIECKI, THE POWERFUL SPEEDSTER, was scheduled to really hit his stride this fall in his sophomore year.

The five foot, 11 inch lad from Elizabeth, N. J., was being built up into a super star. Even his height and weight as listed in the GW brochure and programs was inflated to new highs. (He weighs 175, though is listed at 190; and his reported height is six feet.)

But the one-time priest student has failed to live up to his raving press notices. In six games he has recorded only 175 yards on the ground, a figure he was expected to eclipse after two games.

WHAT IS WRONG WITH CIEMNIECKI? is one of the favorite questions tossed around these days when football is being discussed.

"I feel in great physical shape and have had no trouble with pulled leg muscles this season," says the earnest Ciemniecki, who is somewhat bewildered by his offensive showing.

The most plausible theory regarding Len's mystifying case is that he is a victim of the return to the single-platoon play. He was an offensive whiz, who concentrated almost solely on offense during his brief, but spectacular high school career and during his first season of college ball. The switch to the single platoon rule brought with it the conclusion of the specialist's role, and this situation set the stage for Len's inconsistent performance.

IT APPEARS THAT CIEMNIECKI's play may have been affected by a little mental anguish on his part. For Len readily admits, "I have worried about mastering defense."

Len, who once was preparing for the Maryknoll Order of priesthood for foreign missions, is not the fretting kind either.

THIS IS ONLY HIS FOURTH SEASON of organized football. Len, who never weighed more than 160 pounds in high school, went out for football for the first time in his junior year. He made the varsity at St. Mary's of Elizabeth playing at end.

In his senior year, he was moved to a halfback slot and promptly became one of New Jersey's most sought after high school stars. He scored 14 touchdowns and made the all-State eleven. His bread-and-butter play was an off-tackle dash.

LEN STARTED LIKE HE HAD FINALLY HIT his stride in the William and Mary game. He carried the ball for gains on each of the first four plays from scrimmage. But two plays later he muffed a perfectly executed pass play that might have broken the game right open.

Ciemniecki, who has been GW's number two pass receiver this season, recalls, "I'll remember that play for a long time. I started running with the ball before I had caught it."

But Len is not cluttering up his mind with worrying over games that have passed. For Len, like most of the other footballers, are thinking about a game coming up with Maryland Saturday afternoon.

"This is one we want to win," says Len strongly, and echoes the other Colonials.

And if GW is going to win this one, it needs the kind of running that is expected from Len Ciemniecki, who could be one of the best.

Colonials Decided Underdogs Against Tatum's Terrors

ACE pass-receiver Richie Gaskell and Pat Kober will probably start at ends, Dick Drake and John Prach at tackles, Bill Neal and Carl Bodolus at guards and Steve (The Rock) Korcheck at center in the line for GW.

Maryland has shut-out four of its opponents so far and have had only 25 points scored against them in picking up seven wins in a row.

The Terps topped Missouri, 20-6; Washington and Lee, 52-0; Clemson, 20-0; Georgia, 40-13; North Carolina, 26-0; Miami, 30-0, and South Carolina, 24-6.

Maryland slowed down its pace somewhat last Saturday in defeating South Carolina, and failed to impress as much as had been the case in the first six games, when they seemed to score at will.

Tatum's crew is expected to use mainly a ground attack against the Colonials, while the Shermanmen will shoot for the upset mainly through the air lanes with their strong passing attack.

The G Street platoon will be gunning for its fourth season triumph—hopefully. Last Saturday they gained their third verdict at the expense of Washington and Lee, 25-7. Remember that's the team the Terrapins thumped, 52-0.

Other wins were registered over VMI, 14-13, and North Carolina State, 20-7. Reverses came in games with Virginia, 24-20; West Virginia, 27-6, and William and Mary, 12-7.

Intramurals . . .

SAE 18—TEP 0

SAE REMAINED tied with Sigma Chi for the League B championship by defeating TEP. Jerry Slaughter raced 55 yards for the first score, and Cecil Charles added the second late in the third period.

SIGMA CHI 19—PHISK 0

Bill Winder scored twice and George Egan once as the Sigma Chi powerhouse won its third consecutive victory in League B.

DTD 24—KS 0

Delta Tau Delta rebounded from its defeat a week ago at the hands of Phi Alpha, and trounced Kappa Sigma, 24 to 0. Bill Evans, Roger Turner, Ed Gatewood and Jay Howard scored for the Deltas.

PHI ALPHA 26—TKE 0

Marv Rosenblatt and Dick Wolf paced the Alphans to their third straight victory in League A.

Independents 7—PIKA 6

A Bud Fisher-Jim Duffy pass for the extra point won the game for the Independents.

SIGMA NU 22—AEPI 0

Dick Dodd paced the Sigma Nu victory.
